HARMON GOES,
BRYAN COMES.Commoner Will Dine With
Governor's Enemy.Harvey C. Garber Will Be Nebraska's Host.Executive Far Away from Plotters' Wiles.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] William Jennings Bryan will break bread in the home of Harvey C. Garber, Democratic National Committee member from Ohio, and his wife, when he comes to Columbus on Monday to speak at the Jefferson Democratic Club. While these two enemies of the Harmon Presidential boom are in his stronghold, the Governor will be several hundred miles away, unable to checkmate possible political plots of his adversaries in the Democratic party.

Announcement that Mr. Bryan would be entertained by Garber caused surprise among the Democratic politicians of the State today. It is said, however, that Mr. Bryan will not talk politics in the Governor's home.

Announcement of his plans also brought out the fact that the commoner wanted a chance to talk with the Governor, who is said to have made no special effort to open the way.

When a committee of club members interviewed Mr. Bryan about his arrangements here, he said: "I should be very glad to be entertained at the home of Gov. Harmon. He is a fine fellow and I like him personally. He has made a good Governor."

Whether or not this statement was taken to Gov. Harmon was not learned, but soon after plans for Mr. Bryan's visit had been completed, the Governor announced that he would be unable to attend the local meeting and left for a two weeks' cruise on the Great Lakes with the State's national militia.

CHICAGO BROKER'S CLERK MARRIES ENGLISH BEAUTY.

Secret Leaks Out After Five Months and Crusty London Guardian of Bride Relents and Forgive—Big Estate Released and Will Come to Young Woman.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The secret marriage of Chester W. Chapin, a young Chicago broker's clerk, and Miss Lillian Meade, a London society girl, and an heiress, some months ago, was made public today. This was unfolded a pretty story of an international romance of modern days that breathes of the times of fairyland.

Cupid's triumph was made complete when Judge William Meade, a retired member of London's judiciary, who, as the guardian and uncle of the young man and even refused to recognize it afterwards, made a belated and public announcement of the wedding, forgave all and bestowed his blessings on the couple.

Two hearts that were glad before were filled with joy when intelligence of the wedding was conveyed to the couple at their modest little six-room flat, No. 516 Mills avenue.

The dignified old guardian, happy in the thought that he has made his niece and her husband doubly happy, is believed to have prompted him to forgive them. He will leave for Europe soon and will release the legal bonds that held the estate of Dr. William Meade, father of the bride, from his niece.

The romance of the English girl and the young American has all the elements of an ideal love story. She was member of London's younger social set and studied surgery at Oxford, finally deciding to strive to become a famous surgeon like her late father, who was this ambition that drew her to America and to Chicago.

She met Chapin at a garden party, and "the same old, old story" was explained, with a small difference. They are all the same world over, to meet. We loved, and—well, we were wed.

The English girl, who gave up a position in outer London for a prosaic job in a Chicago flat with an ambitious clerk, says she preferred the flat in Chicago to the empty life of a society member in London.

United States Acquiring Title to Four Islands at the Pacific Entrance to the Panama Canal.

(BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The United States government will shortly acquire a joint commission to the Naos, Flamenco, Perito and Culbre islands at the Pacific entrance to the Panama canal. The Pacific Mail Steamship Company has accepted the offer of a joint commission to the islands, which the company will receive $44,000 for its half interest and improvements on the islands already owned by the Panama Railroad Company, which is owned by the United States government. The islands are now being used primarily for quarantine purposes.

RECRUITING MAGONISTAS.

Man Sent to Organize Clubs Is Under Arrest in Torreon Where Trouble Is Imminent.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

EL PASO (Tex.) Aug. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Magonistas are becoming more and more active in the district surrounding Torreon, where the discontent among the rebel army that fought with Madero continues to grow each day.

C. M. Garcia, a Mexican who was sent to Torreon by Flores Magón, to organize Magonista clubs, has been arrested in Torreon and is now being held a prisoner. He carried letters from Flores Magón, and had a large number of recruiting blanks for the Magonista army, which he was having the rebel soldiers and the dissatisfied remnants of the Torreon district sign.

At Torreon it is reported that a band of 500 Magonistas are now camped at Charcos de Rios, in the vicinity of San Pedro, but other recruits are joining them every day, many coming from the rebel army and bringing their guns and ammunition with them.

The rebel army in this district has become a problem to handle, and orders and counter-orders have been given to disband, but the rebels refuse to give up their arms and go to their homes.

Special trains have been sent there to take the men to their homes in order that the Federal troops may occupy the garrison. But the rebels say they will not vacate in favor of the Federalists, who were defeated during the revolution. Trouble is expected as soon as the Federal troops arrive.

CHILD STEALERS
ELUDE POLICE.*Real Abductors of Mareno
Boy Still at Large.*Twelve Suspects Taken by Chicago Officers.*Father Denies Lad's Story of Visiting Him.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Four of the alleged kidnapers of Angelo Mareno, who were arrested in the sweeping roundup of Sicilians and Italians following the return of the boy, were formally booked today at the Chicago police station. Those booked were: Carmelo Nicolosi, Joseph Nicolosi, Paulino Nicolosi, wife of Joseph Nicolosi, Blacio Cudrono.

All the members of the Nicolosi family who were arrested in connection with the kidnapping, with the exception of Laura, wife of Carmelo, were charged with kidnapping and extortion by threats. Mrs. Cudrono has been charged with being an accessory to the kidnapping, both before and after the fact. After a severe examination by Inspector Revere, and Laura Nicolosi was liberated. It was said by the inspector that he had clearly established that she was in no way concerned with the plot to extort money from Mareno.

—PAID A RANSOM.

Six-year-old Angelo Mareno, who was kidnapped last Saturday and released last night after his father had paid $500 ransom, spent today in telling his playmates of his experiences in the kidnappers' stronghold, supposed to be a castle in Sicily. He was rapt and made much of his captors.

The liberation of the boy on the street a few blocks from his home and the subsequent arrest of twelve alleged accomplices in the plot, was supposed to have cleared the case, the police declaring that the actual abductors were known and that their arrest would be a matter of a few hours. No sliver of mystery, however, baffled the detectives today, and it was admitted this evening that some of the officers of the force were of the opinion that the boy had been taken from the house where it was supposed he would be found, and all trace of him appeared to have been blotted out.

Admissions by little Angelo that twice yesterday his father had visited the scene of his confinement and the positive denial of the elder Mareno, caused the police to believe that the boy was supposed to have been taken from a detective every minute of the time since he reported the abduction of his child. How he managed to elude his captors, if the boy's story is true, the detective could not explain. Neither did the detective explain the explanation for the escape of the child stealers, and the two men and a woman who are supposed to have been in the Chicago kidnaping, under the alias of five days of captivity, when the roundup of suspects was made last night.

Twelve prisoners—nine men and three women—were arrested, but it was admitted this afternoon that all were not arrested in the capture of some of them are alleged to have acted as go-betweens.

A suspect arrested in the Fort Dearborn National Bank and Detective Gentile today gave his name as Giuseppe Mule. The prisoner entered the bank with a boy shortly before noon and tried to draw $1100, which was deposited in the institution a year ago by Giuseppe Mule. He represented himself as Mule, but the clerk was not satisfied and telephoned the police.

The police believe the man may have knowledge of the Mareno kidnaping and that he intended to draw the money out of the bank and leave the country.

The return of Angelo had been arranged by the father under instructions from Inspector Revere and $1500 was paid by Mareno yesterday afternoon. The program was carried out in every detail, except that which concerned the capture of the real perpetrators of the plot.

Torridity Is Sent to Bertrando Him for Defacing Nature—She Borrows a Stepladder in New York and Gets the Lender to Cash Her Small Check.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The heat in New York is caused by the construction of the Panama Canal. Man thinks he's better than God, but the Lord knew what he was doing when he put the lighthouse of Panama where he did and he wanted it to stay as he made it.

This new and remarkable theory was advanced today by Mrs. Heitty Green. Further comment she would not make, leaving the rest to the imagination. According to the world's greatest woman, the weather man is a "bunk," and all his talk about high and low pressure is mere child's play. It has nothing whatever to do with the heat.

The heat is simply caused by the wrath of God visited upon the children of New York for going down to Panama and defacing nature. Stop the work and fill up the hole and New York will have a snowstorm, and there you are.

Mrs. Green's theory today borrowed a step ladder from the manager of the Crane Oxygen Company, at No. 5 West Ninetieth street, which is directly opposite the hole through the earth, Col. Green, and in the redecoration of which Mrs. Green has taken such a great interest. She visits there several times a week from her home in West Hampton.

When she borrowed the ladder the manager offered to carry it across the CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A locomotive was pressed into service to pursue and capture John Wood this afternoon. Wood, who is 14 years old, is accused of having enticed 10-year-old Elizabeth Salaba to the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks near One Hundred and Tenth street. The chase covered a mile, with Mrs. Alby Salaba, mother of the girl, in the car of the locomotive with the engineer and fireman. The little girl was playing in front of her home, corner One Hundred and Ninth street and Superior avenue, when Wood is alleged to have coaxed her away by giving her pennies for candy. A few moments after the child left with the man Mrs. Salaba discovered her daughter had disappeared and traced the two to the railroad yard.

Wood fled south along the tracks. Mrs. Salaba pursued the man until he was almost exhausted. She saw a locomotive standing on the tracks and told the engineer why she was pursuing Wood.

The engineer told Mrs. Salaba to climb into the cab. Then he threw on the throttle and the locomotive sped after Wood.

At One Hundred and Eighteenth street—about the engine overtook the man and Mrs. Salaba, and the engineer jumped out and seized him.

Wood struggled, but the engineer and railroad employees overpowered him. When Lieut. Joseph Smith and Detective O'Brien of the Meigs station reached the scene a crowd of men had gathered about the prisoner and were threatening to lynch him.

Wood was locked up.

Fourteen Months' Chase of Oklahoma Woman Charged With Robbery Ends in Arrest in Danville.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

DANVILLE (Ind.) Aug. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After a chase of fourteen months, extending over six States, Mrs. Josephine Hoon, formerly of this city, was arrested here this afternoon by Detective A. Egan of Tulsa, Okla., on the charge of robbery. She was taken to Tulsa this evening.

According to Detective Egan, the woman confessed to administering "blackout drops" to Frank Hamer, a stock buyer, in that city, fourteen months ago, robbing him of $815 and making her escape.

The trace of the woman could be found after she left Tulsa until Patrolman Ames Daugherty, who was in charge of the case, located her in a saloon and accused her of tipping off the whereabouts of Mrs. Hoon, with whom the Hayes girl lived. An argument followed and Daugherty fired two shots, killing the Hayes woman instantly. Officer Pilkington attempted to prevent the tragedy, but after Miss Hayes fell, Daugherty turned the revolver on himself. The bullet passed through him, killing him instantly and entered the body of Daugherty, giving him a wound from which he is still a sufferer.

The police then took up the trail of Mrs. Hoon and followed her through Oklahoma and New Mexico, back through Missouri, down into Tennessee, then through Kentucky and Indiana, to Danville, where she was arrested.

MINNEAPOLIS (Minn.) Aug. 11.—

[Exclusive Dispatch.] Following a romantic courtship early in the year, Miss Florence Hopwood, a Minneapolis girl, is to become the wife of Charles G. Gates who will inherit the greater part of the estate of his father, John W. Gates, American millionaire, who died Wednesday in Paris. The engagement took place early in the summer before Charles G. Gates was called to Paris by the death of his father and when he left Miss Hopwood and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Hopwood, of No. 1812 Kensington Avenue South, accompanied him.

Miss Hopwood has returned, but his wife and daughter are still in Paris.

The courtship which ended in the engagement in Minneapolis began last winter at French Lick Springs, Ind., when Mr. and Mrs. Hopwood and their daughter and Mrs. John W. Gates and her son, Charles G. Gates, were staying there. It was here that the families became acquainted for the first time and it was some time after Miss Hopwood met Mr. Gates that she knew he was the son of the man who had been called to Paris.

Frank P. Hopwood said today that the two fell in love shortly after their meeting.

It is true that my daughter and Mr. Gates are engaged, said Mr. Hopwood today, "and I am glad of the match. It has my approval and it is purely a matter of the heart as far as they are concerned. I am sure the two will be happy."

NAMORA (Iowa) Aug. 11.—A posse of a hundred men in automobiles, pursued tonight in the timber belt west of Marion, Iowa, Charles Smith, a penitentiary convict, and companion, who today shot William Humaker, a prison guard, and then tried to make a dash for it. The fleeing pair are said to be in a buggy, well supplied with firearms.

Humaker, who was shot in the stomach, probably will die. Lashed to the tree, he suffered for some time before his cries finally summoned aid.

By a ruse, a brother of the convict, was enabled to attack Humaker while he was more than a mile away from the prison, alone and with Smith.

RUSE WORKS.

While Smith was working in a stone quarry, two miles from the prison, some one telephoned the warden's office and asked permission to see the convict. The request was granted and Humaker was ordered to bring the prisoner to the warden's office. Half way to the prison, Humaker was confronted by an armed man. Before the guard could draw his revolver he was shot down, Smith the only survivor.

Day by Day Fifty Years Ago

CVIII.

There Arrived at Fort Monroe a Party of Union Prisoners from Richmond, Including Lincoln Who Had an Interesting Story to Tell. Lincoln Proclaimed a Day of Public Prayer.

Beautiful as when I looked upon it today," said Mrs. Curtis in concluding her story, after her arrival at Fort Monroe. Mrs. Curtis was obliged to return to Washington by way of a steamer to Baltimore.

Day of Humiliation. Fifty years ago today President Lincoln issued a solemn proclamation to the people of the United States, appointing a day of "public humiliation, prayer and fasting."

This action was in accordance with a resolution of Congress, and had direct reference to the reverses the Union cause had thus far met with in the field.

The day following the battle of Manassas, or Bull Run, the Confederate Congress at Richmond had passed a resolution recognizing "the hand of the Most High God, the King of Kings and Lord of Lords" in their victory.

The Federal Congress contained many members who believed that they should not appear deficient before the example of the South, in expression of a reliance on the Almighty's power to shape the affairs of a nation.

President Lincoln was not a religious man, in the sense of advocating any one creed, and many of his critics called him unreligious; yet a more fitting, eloquent and heartfelt document was never written by him than that issued fifty years ago today calling on the people of the country, especially all ministers and teachers of religion, to observe the day by appointed for prayer and fasting.

In all humility, and with all religious solemnity.

Lincoln's Proclamation. The text of the President's proclamation—which is not given in most histories—was as follows:

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, A joint committee of both Houses of Congress has waited on the President of the United States and requested him to "recommend a day of public humiliation, prayer and fasting to be observed by the people of the United States with religious solemnities, and the offering of fervent supplications to Almighty God for the safety and welfare of these States, his blessings on their arms, and a speedy restoration of peace."

And whereas, It is fit and becoming in all people, at all times, to acknowledge and reverence the supreme government of God; to bow in humble submission to his chastisement; to confess and deplore their sins and transgressions, in the full conviction that the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and to pray, with confidence and contrition, for the pardon of their past offenses, and for a blessing upon their present and prospective action;

And whereas, When our beloved country, once, by the blessing of God, prospered and happy, is now afflicted with factions and civil wars, it is peculiarly fit for us to recognize the hand of God in this terrible visitation, and in sorrowful remembrance of our own faults and crimes as a nation, and as individuals, to humble ourselves before him, and to pray for his mercy—to pray that we may be spared further punishment, though most justly deserved; that our arms may be blessed and made effectual for the reestablishment of law and peace throughout the wide continent of our country; and that the inalienable boon of civil and religious liberty, earned under his guidance and blessings by the labors and sufferings of our fathers, may be restored in all its original excellence;

Therefore, I, Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, do appoint the last Thursday in September next as a day of humiliation, prayer and fasting for all the people of the nation. And I do earnestly recommend that all the people, and especially all ministers and teachers of religion, of all denominations, and to all heads of families, to observe and keep that day, according to their several creeds and modes of worship, in all humility, and with all confidence, to the end that the united prayer of the nation may ascend to the throne of grace, and bring down plentiful blessings upon our country.

It is my earnest hope that I have hereunto set my hand, and to be effective, this 12th day of August, A. D. 1861, and of the Independence of the United States of America, the 12th day.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

By the President: William H. Seward, Secretary of State.

Labor Unionists in Chicago Says Men Are Ready for a Contest With the Railways.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Reports received from the Pacific Coast points to the effect that the union composed of shop employees that they will cancel existing agreements within thirty days were explained by railroad officials in Chicago today as meaning that the union have asked to be granted a conference within that period.

It is the plan of the union-shop men to be represented at these conferences by a joint committee acting under the rules of the railroad department of the American Federation of Labor.

"We intend to await until the thirty-day period has expired before taking any further action," said one union representative today. "Our rules provide for that method of procedure if we did not obey the laws of the organization we would be deprived of the support of the American Federation of Labor in the event of a strike."

At the end of the thirty-day limit we will proceed to make our next move, unless conferences have been agreed to by the railroads in the meantime. We have been making our forces for a long time and if it is necessary, we will be assured to strike hard."

WHAT GATES OWNED.

Wall Street Journal Insists That His Estate Is Worth "Not" Twenty Millions of Dollars.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Wall Street Journal says:

Estimates of John W. Gates's fortune at from $40,000 to $50,000,000 are rank guesses. The cable dispatch published in the Wall Street Journal, July 7, that John W. Gates was seriously ill in Paris, and that if he passed away, he would leave a fortune of $20,000,000, was not a guess or an estimate. It is information. There is reason to believe that at one time Mr. Gates was worth between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 in market values. After he was "crimped" and "bent" in Wall street, he devoted his attention to his Texas oil interests and had succeeded in extending these oil interests into Mexico, according to negotiations begun before his illness, possibilities of increasing his fortune to its former maximum might have opened out; but at present there is no reason for placing the fortune of John Gates at above $10,000,000.

PARDON GRANTED TO FOIL JUDGE.

IOLA (KAN.) WOMAN NEED NOT SERVE ON CHAIN GANG.

Mayor and City Commissioners Discover Way to Get Around the Sentence Imposed by Police Judge. Famous "Bloomer" Case Ended by Happy Thought.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] IOLA (KAN.) Aug. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In special session this morning the City Commissioners ordered the release of Mrs. Ella Reese, the woman whom Judge Smeltzer had said should don bloomers and work out her sentence in the public streets. It was to save the honor of Iola, the Commissioners said. Accordingly, Mayor Bollinger ordered the woman released this afternoon.

Until Travis Morse, City Attorney, discovered that, while the commission took away from the Mayor the power of parole, it vested him with power to pardon when approved by the Board of Commissioners. It was believed that Judge Smeltzer held the key to the situation. It looked as if Mrs. Reese was destined to serve a long term in jail if she didn't comply with the order of the court. But today monster petitions were brought to the office of Mayor Bollinger, praying that some action be taken looking toward the release of Mrs. Reese. The Mayor asked the City Attorney to look up the law, the commission from of government being new, and it was found that the commission had a way to overrule the judge.

"As a rule, I am opposed to pardons and paroles in cases like the one we have before us," said the Mayor, when the commission had assembled, "but we have in this case an unusual state of affairs. It is absurd to think we would allow a woman to work on the streets in bloomers. I herewith submit, gentlemen, the pardon I have issued for Mrs. Reese, subject to your approval."

"Move it," he approved, shouted Commissioners Glenn and Smith in chorus.

As soon as the Mayor signed the pardon, Chief of Police Coffield went to the City Jail and informed Mrs. Reese that she would be released this afternoon as soon as the City Attorney examined the document to be sure that it was legally drawn and executed.

Contributions had begun to come in to pay the woman's fine. Mrs. Reese was convicted of immoral conduct.

WOMEN DIFFER ON AMERICANS.

FOREIGNER SAYS TOO GOOD: NEW YORKER TOO DULL.

Countess Corais of Russia, Now in Los Angeles, Amazed at Docility of Husbands: Mrs. Arthur Alfred Brooks Says They're Too Narrow-Minded and Stupid.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Is the American husband too good for his wife?

No less a person than Countess Alexandra Wladimirovna Corais in Los Angeles this week answered that question in the affirmative. Said the Countess the other day:

"The lot of a Russian serf is compared with that of the American husband. Self sacrifice is an unknown quality in the American woman. Catering to her whims and her desires is her one law."

"American men make good husbands; too good, in fact. They should be master in the home, as well as in business."

"It perplexes Europeans to find Americans so aggressive in everything pertaining to business, and then see them take a back seat when they enter the doors of their homes."

"No, I do not believe that women should vote," added the Countess. "Woman is unfitted for the ballot all her life. She should stay at home and make that home pleasant for her husband. That is woman's duty."

And what has the American wife to say to this sentiment?

Mrs. Arthur Alfred Brooks, president of the Gotham Club, speaks for herself.

"The American husband is good, but not too good," defined Mrs. Brooks, smiling. "His most exasperating faults are narrow mindedness and conversational stupidity. Until he learns that a toccata of Galuppi is not the newest thing in entrees, and that Michelangelo is at least as great a person as Morgan, he will not live as a truly happy man."

In the eyes of the modern woman, a man who bores her is almost as bad as one who beats her."

"Were all medicines as meritorious as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy the world would be much better off and the percentage of suffering greatly decreased," writes Landay Scott of Temple, Ind. For sale by all dealers.—[Adv.]

WELCOME
OCEAN-TO-OCEAN TOURISTS.

Cards of Enthusiasm Extending a Royal Welcome to the Premier Ocean-to-Ocean Tourists.

The tourists are just entering the city gates and the through hurrying to old the cross-continental motorists honora.

Championship Tournament here. In their semi-finals they defeated T. R. Pell and L. E. Mahan, 6-4, 6-2, 6-7, 7-5.

The Californians will meet G. P. Touchard and R. D. Little for the title tomorrow afternoon. It is planned to decide the singles with Pell and Touchard tomorrow also, if possible.

MISS SUTTON WINS WOMEN'S SINGLES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] TACOMA, Aug. 11.—Miss May Sutton defeated Miss Campbell of Portland, 6-0, 6-1, today in the women's singles of the Washington State Tennis Tournament. In the women's doubles Miss Yahnstock and Gillison defeated Miss Sutton and Miss Seymour by default. Results: Mixed doubles—Miss Sutton and Capt. Foulkes defeated Mrs. Gillison and Kelleher, 6-0, 6-5.

GARDENER QUALIFIES FOR FINAL ROUND.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—A. R. Gardner, former national amateur golf champion, qualified for the final round in the Glenview tournament today, defeating G. M. McConnell of Edgewater in the semi-final, 7 up and play. He will meet Charles Evans, former amateur champion, in the final round tomorrow.

WELSH IS READY.

The fight bugs who have been expecting the promoters to get Freddie Welsh a match on the Coast may be able to bring one to a head, for there is now a scheme on foot to have Knockout Brown meet Welsh.

This bird has made the statement that both Wells and Welsh have run out on him, and in answer to this night that he would fight Knockout Brown if the match could be brought off any date six weeks before both Welsh and Brown have wired the effort to get the match, and it is possible that something definite will be learned today.

McGOVERN BEATS HONNEY.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Phil McGovern of Brooklyn smashed and hammered Packer Honney of the East Side for ten rounds at the Twentieth Century Club tonight, but, despite the many hard blows he landed, Honney was in the ring at the end, smiling. McGovern's ring generalship won the battle for him.

AVIATOR FALLS FAR.

MINNEAPOLIS (L. I.) Aug. 11.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Walter B. Winchburg, an aviator, while trying to qualify for a pilot's license here today fell 210 feet, wrecking the forward part of his machine and badly bruising his face.

GOLF AT MANCHESTER.

MANCHESTER (N. H.) Aug. 11.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Walter B. Winchburg of Garden City defeated Fred Herreshof of Westbrook in the final round today for the first prize in the club cup at the Ekwanok Country Club, one up.

THE wonderful risks taken by government in the course of their work, will be the subject of an article in The Times of the coming Sunday.

UHLAN SETS NEW RECORD.

Goes Half Mile to Wagon in Fast Time.

Grand Circuit Races End in Season's Sensation.

Argot Hal Wins Tavern Stake at Cleveland.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] CLEVELAND, Aug. 11.—The Grand Circuit races on the North Randall track came to a close in a blaze of glory today, when C. K. G. Billings' great trotting gelding Uhlán stepped a half mile to wagon in the open at 1:56 1-4.

This broke the old record of one minute flat, established by Major Del-han won. Lena Lech second, Fore third; time, 1:10 4-5.

Uhlán and a quarter: Luke Cates won. Foreground second, Round third; time, 2:05.

Mile: Ocean Shore won. Venetian second, Zahra third; time, 1:42 1-2.

Futurity course: Doc Allyn won, Lee Harrison II second, Barry third; time, 1:11 1-5.

WILL IMPROVE SYSTEM.

EL PASO (Tex.) Aug. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Southwestern Railway System will expend $307,000 in improvements on its present western division between El Paso and Fairbank, Ariz., in order to bring the line up to the standard required for the heavy California through-freight haul which will result from the completion of the Tucson extension from Fairbank to Tucson. This work will include the complete rebuilding of the line for a distance of eleven miles along the San Pedro River and the standardizing of the entire division. The Golden State Limited trains will then be operated over the line from El Paso to Tucson, instead of being delivered to the Southern Pacific here. The grading work will begin at once.

INDIVIDUAL PERMITS ARE NOT POPULAR.

There is a feeling among a section of the followers of athletics who love

Improving the standard of the American amateur in the eyes of the foreigner, and it is better that they be kept at home in the United States. When men go abroad with a team and are turned loose after such an event as the Olympic games or similar fixture is over, then it is their right to go wherever their fancy or pocket might lead them. For a star athlete to go alone and travel about from town to town and take in every rural meet, festival and fair, only creates the idea that he is out for the money. With men who go across and compete in a couple of championships and other big meets and then come home it is different, and they are regarded with no sort of suspicion, but on the contrary, are more or less admired for their aspirations to capture foreign titles.

Of late years it has been the custom for the star sprinters to go to England and spend the season touring and running here and there wherever it was found worth while. After the Olympic games at London one American sprinter had a great time of it for a couple of seasons, but just as he was about to be precipitated into the professional ranks he advanced to a position where he could effectively parry, kill, or volley almost any kind of a return. Larned loses very little vitality serving, yet he is the most successful player America has ever had. Nobody, of course, who wanted to be an expert with the racket would ever think of copying the nice, little, soft service of Harold H. Hackett, yet it has rushed more players to stardom than all the tipping, smashing, swatting, wallowing drives of the whole brigade of the followers of the swift American service. Hardly anybody ever saw Hackett miss his first service ball.

If a man cared to practice service for accuracy and to cure himself of wallowing into the top cord of the net it would not be a bad plan to try the method followed by Dr. Joshua Pim, winner of the English championship and undoubtedly a wonderful player in his day. He generally pitched at the Fitz-William club in Dublin. He would place a circular piece of paper four inches or so in diameter on the opposite court and try to hit it with the ball for a full hour, and as his strokes grew accurate he would move nearer to the opposite side of the net so that he could learn to shave the top cord. In practice he would always like to play against the best man available, but when possible he would play against the professional employed by the club, and the doctor would agree to pay him a crown for every set the "pro" could win. It was then Pim was properly extended, for the "pro" was out to make some coin and he uncovered all his best shots and tactics that would not otherwise be brought into execution.

LARNED'S SERVICE PLEASES SPECTATORS.

If a popular method of service was to be decided by the spectators the one to be selected would be that practiced by William A. Larned, the national champion. It is not a very swift ball nor has it any top spin delivered with any terrific wallow, and very rarely does he need to serve the second, for his first ball lands every time across the net, and just as it does he advances to a position where he can effectively parry, kill, or volley almost any kind of a return. Larned loses very little vitality serving, yet he is the most successful player America has ever had. Nobody, of course, who wanted to be an expert with the racket would ever think of copying the nice, little, soft service of Harold H. Hackett, yet it has rushed more players to stardom than all the tipping, smashing, swatting, wallowing drives of the whole brigade of the followers of the swift American service. Hardly anybody ever saw Hackett miss his first service ball.

If a man cared to practice service for accuracy and to cure himself of wallowing into the top cord of the net it would not be a bad plan to try the method followed by Dr. Joshua Pim, winner of the English championship and undoubtedly a wonderful player in his day. EARTHQUAKE
CRACKS WALL.San Bernardino County Gets a Severe Shakeup.Walls of Library Building
Cracked at Colton.People Rush Into Streets
Filled With Terror.BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.
SAN BERNARDINO, Aug. 11.—[By
A. P. Night Wire.] The effects of a San Jacinto earthquake at 10:15 this morning and at 10:45 this afternoon.The latter shock was almost equal to the upheaval which leveled the town of San Jacinto Christmas morning ten years ago. In San Jacinto the greatest alarm prevailed. Residences and business houses were rocked for an instant as though a leaving ocean was beneath the town, and occupants dashed pell mell into the streets fully expecting to see the buildings collapse. For several days reports that Mt. San Jacinto was rumbling again intensified the excitement.The old mountain seemed as placid as ever during the disturbances, though rocks tumbled down the slopes,
a dust cloud arising in their wake, plainly indicating that the mysterious old mountain was at his tricks. Reports from San Jacinto tonight indicate that no damage resulted, because a few cracked walls and crack-ey shaken from shelves.The first quake was felt at San Jacinto at 10:15, it traveling west toward Redlands, shaking Redlands at 10:45 and less than sixty seconds later this city was seized, the tall buildings in the business section trembling.Edna reports the morning quake at 10:15, and about the same instant
Upland and Ontario felt the tremor.
This afternoon at 10:45 San Jacinto trembled again, the disturbance being most violent, and compared by some to the great quake of ten years ago when in the gray dawn of Christmas morning, the town was levelled.The quake is described as a heavy, twisting motion, preceded by a deep rumbling. A few walls of buildings were cracked and chimneys down, this constituting the extent of the damage so far as reported.At 10:45 Redlands was shaken, and a few seconds later this city felt the quake, its violence being so extensive as to rock the tall buildings in the business district, and drive occupants into the street. The motion in this city was undulating and buildings trembled under the shock.At Colton the quake was violently felt, cracks appearing in plastering of stores and residences. A few sec-

WILD ROSES.

One of the most pleasant things about a city is that it sometimes reminds us of the country. In passing a flower shop to get a gift of fragrant perfume will sometimes carry one in memory to childhood's delightful haunts. It is possible now and then to look into the faces of persons and tell whether they have ever breathed air sweetened by wild roses. When a life has known the ecstasy of the sweet briar in its childhood it is somehow set apart from those less favored. It seems forever aloof from the strife of the world. We pity the man a little too bitter or the woman a little too sad, for we know their childhood missed the joy of the wild roses.

OUT OF SOAPS?

Was there among all the Republican insurgent politicians of California no man fit for the office of joint secretary of the California Conservation Commission and the State Board of Control in charge of water power that the appointing power was compelled to import the discredited and branded Louis R. Glavin to fill the office?

Can there not be found among all the 229,000 people of Los Angeles three men with brains enough to formulate a city charter, that the city must pay $5000 to New Yorkers to do the work?

The insurgent patriots who have been hanging around the counter in the vain hope of securing a piece of pie may now say to the members of the Earl-Lisner-Johnson triumvirate:

"I suppose it was right to dismember your party, but why did you kick me down stairs?"

WANTED POWER.

Out of fine generosity we offer the inventive genius of the world one large idea in good condition. We have noticed that horse power is seldom wasted, but man power goes to waste by the minute. The energy generated by the human system is wasted through the feet to a prodigious degree. Our plan would be to have the floor of a dancing hall magnetized and attached to a live wire which would carry the power generated to a laundry or a factory. Los Angeles could be lighted every night by utilizing the power generated at the dancing academies. Carry this idea a little further and the street car system could be operated entirely by pedestrian power. Any simple process that would take the wasted power from the sidewalk and transmit it to points of use would place the inventor in comfortable circumstances.

THE FLYING VEIL.

If men could fly the action would carry a twofold advantage. We would save car fare and we would escape the annoyance of sitting behind a woman whose long and fluttering veil, tied exactly where it will flutter most, flaps in our faces and makes reading or smoking impossibilities. Reading on cars is not good for one, and smoking at any time is without profit, but there is something painful in sitting under a veil that blinds a man to all his rights. As soon as the present brilliant society campaign of the woman suffragists has subsided we are going to encourage a campaign for the rights of men that will have for its chief end the repression by three or four yards of the monstrous veils which some women are wearing. The objection may lie entirely in the way the veils are tied, but the least the wearers can do under the circumstances is to employ a caddy to run down the ends.

TRAINED LIONS.

At a local resort yesterday afternoon a rehearsal of a five-point eucure game was held in the cage of two trained lions. The best of trainers can never know when a lion will forget its training and remember only that it is a lion. The den of an abed-dion is not the best place for a nervous person to go for a rest. Personal habits are like trained lions. There is no telling at what point a comparatively harmless indulgence may break down the consistency of a life. The slightest lapse from integrity wherein no harm is intended may result in the serious disintegration of character. Brilliant and all good points must be sadly discounted in the man who is not entirely reliable. A man may do many things which, as single acts, are not harmful, but there is no guarantee that a trained lion, like a trained lion, may not turn and rend him at any time.

TURN-ABOUT.

The manager of the Gaiety Theater in London is, or rather was, renowned for marrying his beautiful chorus girls to dukes and earls and baronets. He scorned Americans, even millionaire Americans. Only an unmarried duke, or an earl, or possibly a baronet of very ancient lineage was suffered to have the entire of the greenroom. There was a ballet girl at the Gaiety named Kelly. She was a good girl, but not a very good dancer, and she was sold to the advances of my Lord Tomnoddy. So the manager of the Gaiety Theater gruffly told her that she danced like an elephant and fired her. Frank Gould, recently divorced from his wife—also named Kelly—heard of the discharge of the dancer. He was indignant. He sought the maiden. Her beautiful, tear-filled, blue eyes captured him. She had been an assistant chambermaid before she went on the stage. But Gould was willing to lead a low spectral life in the harem of the stage and he did. Then the bridegroom bought up a majority of the stock of the Gaiety Company and made a present of it to his bride and she fired the manager of the Gaiety Theater. He was a Frenchman and he returned to Paris, saying: "Ah, les Américains. He is a buzzaw. No monkey you pas wis him."

COME ON, MR. PRESIDENT!

Come to the Coast, President Taft! The stalwart Republicans love and honor you, the Democrats respect you and the snarling misleaders of honest insurgency will not dare insult you to your face, for, if any of the indicted and discredited ones attempt to do so, they will find their immediate atmosphere hotter than the hinges of hell and tasted the delights of this favored part of God's country, you can journey on to San Francisco, where they will give you a spade and let you break the ground for the Panama-Pacific Exposition—the greatest work of all the centuries.

We believe that you were just a bit wrong about reciprocity, but what of that? You were so everlastingly right in originating and carrying through the peace pact of nations that your magnificent achievement for humanity will send your name ringing down the ages, and future generations will enshrine it with those of Washington and Lincoln.

Come and see us. A million voices will welcome you with glad acclaim. The city and the State will belong to you while you are here. Oh, come!

WHERE THE BLAME LIES.

The news that President Taft stands by his principles and will veto the Flood Statehood resolution causes no surprise in Arizona or elsewhere. There is indignation among the so-called "Progressives" over the failure of their schemes, but, on the whole, there is a feeling that Arizona "has got what was coming to her." On his visit to the Southwest last year the President warned the people not to adopt a "zoological-garden-of-freaks" Constitution, such as that of Oklahoma. Later he expressed his deep regret that the Constitutional Convention in Phoenix had made the judiciary of the new State susceptible of removal by the recall. Cool-headed Republicans and Democrats alike pleaded with the convention for the elimination of such radical suggestions, at the best as unnecessary, for the Constitution later could have been amended by a mere majority vote of electors, but to no good result. The radicals simply reiterated, "Let the President veto, if he dare," and pursued their destructive course. Now, if the fruit be bitter, let it not be said that warning was not given at the planning of the deed.

There was hope at a late day that Statehood for Arizona and New Mexico might be saved by proper Congressional action in the elimination of features objectionable to the President. But the Flood resolution, which was passed up to the White House, only sidestepped the main issue, providing for a vote on the judiciary recall that would have no effect beyond recording the desires of the electors upon that particular subject. Its advocates had much to say concerning the "inherent rights of the commonwealth," and they urged that whatever the new State wanted in the way of self-government should be given it, an argument which smacked of a bit of ante-bellum times, when the weal of the nation at large had less consideration than in these latter days. This attitude was supported by a lobby of Arizonans who assumed to be representing the spirit and desires of the people of the Territory.

Just how the Statehood fight will end is now a problem. There is some talk of an attempt to pass the Flood resolution over the President's veto. But this attempt would be idle, for it is evident that among the Senators who voted for the resolution were some who are opposed to Statehood and who voted as they did simply in order that the President might settle the recall feature with a veto. It is told that Flood is considering, in the eleventh hour, the formulation of some measure which will meet with the Presidential approval. In considering whether such a resolution would go through it should be remembered that this session of Congress already has far outrun the usual hot-weather limitation. Yet there can be no doubt of the sincere desire of Congress to finally dispose of the anomalous system of Territorial government. There will be a sigh of relief everywhere when the political status at last have been quieted, though with a weighty gift which will keep them bustling to maintain.

There is regret that New Mexico has to suffer from the misdeeds of a political faction within its neighbor. But let no one blame the President for this. The radical faction in Congress yoked the two Territories with the deliberate intention of forcing William H. Taft to do something at which his conscience and his judgment revolted. They forgot he viewed the situation with the eye of a jurist or of a statesman, and not with that of a petty politician. It is possible he might have ingratiated himself with a noisy coterie by signing the resolution, even if he had appended a protest. But his action in standing for what he considers the right, whatever the personal consequences, will meet with the approval of all conservative men of whatever political designation.

If the extra session of Congress fails to give Statehood to the Territories by the resolution known as the "Hudson" bill, or to the next regular session, in December, by the terms of the original Hamilton act, which prescribes that admission of each subdivision is dependent upon approval of its submitted Constitution by Congress and the President. If either disapprove, the matter is dead, as far as the scope of that particular act extends. Just how this new submission of the obnoxious features of the Constitution to the President will help admission is hard to perceive.

Still, with all these things in view, it is probable that down in Arizona there are bunches of people of a populist turn of mind who are tearing their hair and blaming everyone save themselves over the way Statehood for Arizona has been delayed.

THE HONDURAN TREATY.

California and the Gulf States are equally interested in the ratification of treaties with Honduras and Nicaragua, which are now pending before the United States Senate.

In 1909 the total trade of the States of Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Panama was $60,000,000, of which one-half was with the United States.

We import from these States bananas, coffee, crude rubber and other articles not raised in our own country, all of which should be on the free list, for they do not compete with any products of the United States. We export cotton goods, flour and machinery. With the development of Imperial Valley and the Colorado River lands

The Daring Mr. Togo.

(San Francisco Post.)

California will become an exporter of cotton goods. With the secure establishment of industrial freedom we will become exporters of machinery, and the wheat of Oregon and Washington will be made into flour where the wheat is grown and find a market in Central America.

On the Gulf Coast Key West, Tampa, Pensacola, Mobile, New Orleans and Galveston will all be benefited by an expansion of the commerce of the Caribbean Sea. On the Pacific Coast San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle will gain great commercial advantage by the treaties. Pending the completion of the Panama Canal the trade of the west coast of the Central American States will come to our Pacific Coast cities, and the trade of their eastern coasts will go to the Gulf cities.

This trade, when once established, will not be changed by the completion of the Panama Canal.

The total imports of Honduras in the fiscal year 1909-10, as stated in a recent article in the Washington Post, amounted to $2,581,553. The United States sent $1,769,876, or over 68 per cent, this country taking from Honduras $1,834,565, or 92 per cent, of her exports of $1,990,601.

With the establishment of peace and tranquility in Nicaragua and Honduras—which will promote similar conditions in all the Central American states, American capital will go into those states, and the purchasing power of their people will be immensely increased. Nicaragua north of its lake and southern Honduras are an elevated country—a white man's country, a wheat, cattle, timber and mineral country that is now but sparsely populated. The treaties now pending are not aggressive. They will strengthen the independence and development of those republics and will demonstrate that the United States has no ulterior designs looking toward their acquisition. Indeed, the conservative, impartial and friendly attitude that President Taft maintained toward Mexico, during the recent revolution there, has done much to convince the people of all Central America that they have nothing to lose and everything to gain by an extension of commercial intercourse with us.

There will be very soon a weekly line of steamers plying between San Pedro and Corinto, touching at Mexican ports between, and the Times predicts that the enterprising merchants of Los Angeles will be swift to see and to seize the opportunity that the ratification of the pending treaties will afford them.

CHANGE PARTNERS. HANDS AROUND

Under the reciprocity treaty—if Canada shall accept it, as now seems doubtful—the newspapers, and periodicals, and builders, and livery-stable keepers will get the benefits of it, and the farmers will pay the bills. Therefore, the Times has opposed reciprocity in the interests of California, although in doing so it has differed with President Taft and with the local journals which favored it, but that they hated the President less, but because they loved cussedness and opposition to the Times more.

The Times antagonized Pinchot conservation because it will, if carried out, tie up Alaska coal lands for the benefit of Colorado coal barons, and the fuel consumers of California will pay the bills. In its course in this respect the Times has differed with the cheap and worthless press of this city. Whether it has differed with President Taft or not on this point will depend upon the outcome.

The Times favors a tariff which will protect American industries. Here it agrees with President Taft and differs with those journals which, while favoring a very limited protection in the abstract, yet oppose all measures necessary to establish protection. They resemble the Copperheads who, during the Civil War, were in favor of the Union, but opposed to all measures necessary to preserve it; who were in favor of the war, but opposed to bloodshed.

The Times favors the admission of Arizona. It regrets that, following the misadvice of the morbid press, she has obstructed her road to Statehood with the recall, and it cannot find any words of censure for President Taft if he shall bid the nascent State to tarry in the Jericho of Territorial pupilage for a while, until her beard of common sense shall be grown.

The Times is in favor of good and honest government, whether the same shall be administered by its political friends or its political foes. But the morbid press are opposed to any local government that is controlled by anybody but themselves. They will not support any administration politically that does not support them financially. They are in favor of "treason, stratagems and spoils"—especially spoils. They are "out for the stuff." They mimic the accents of righteousness, the while they seek to thrust their clutching paws into the public treasury. "Their voice is the voice of Jacob, but their hands are the hands of Esau."

EDITOR STRUT.

In the paleontological age of country journalism the editor always had a column or so of letters, written by himself to himself, for the glorification of himself. These letters were signed "A Subscriber," "A Constant Reader," "Veritas" or "A Well-Wisher." Keyrus Strut, the pompous editor of the Tribune, was by means of this self-written correspondence, enabled to toot his own horn louder than it could have been decent to do so in his editorial columns. It also enabled him to lie to his heart's content about the editor of a rival sheet, for, at the head of the correspondence column was a "standing notice" that "the editor assumes no responsibility for the views of writers." The keyrune did not fail to invite the special attention of his readers to what he called "these unsolicited communications from his fellow-citizens" mentioning how secretly honest, how surreptitiously good, how devoted to civic righteousness and the square deal he had ever been—when he was not otherwise occupied.

In his editorial columns Keyrus Strut would say of the letters of his subsopititious correspondents that the "originality of their views, the high excellence of their diction, the civic pride and patriotism evinced by them afforded him delight, awakened his interest and supplied him with inspiration, encouragement and help."

NOT A WOMAN'S GAME.

Mrs. Ella Wilson, Mayor of Hunnewell, Kan., is a woman of undoubted ability, of great determination and of striking personality. Everybody will deplore the harsh treatment she has been subjected to since she launched her barque on the stormy seas of political strife. Under the old regime it would have been impossible for any woman to have been badgered and baited by a body of men, as the Mayor of Hunnewell has been by her City Council.

Let those who advocate so strongly the participation of women in political affairs take themselves again the pertinent question: "Is it worth the price?" Is it well to give up definite privileges for debatable rights? The man who talks so vehemently about the equality of the sexes is the very one who will allow a woman to hang onto a strap in a crowded street car to prove his beliefs. Even today the majority of women prefer a seat in a car to casting a ballot; they prefer old-fashioned gallantry to the new-fashioned want of respect. All good men still find their highest honor, their deepest joy, in shielding women from the rough knocks of an unsympathetic world. Because a few radicals resist this old-time attitude on the part of men, shall all women in the future be placed in the position voluntarily assumed by Mrs. Ella Wilson? And must men be compelled to abandon their chivalry and reverence for the finer sex and become, one and all, as the city councilors of Hunnewell, Kan.

Those who are attempting to reform society and politics by forcing this changed condition on American life might well listen to the words of Ella Wilson, a true woman, ready to fight as long as anybody, who has attempted to live up to her doctrines. Though brave as a lion and true as steel, she admits sorrowfully that "politics is not a woman's game."

INADEQUATE.

[Puck:] So fast was history made, and in forms and aspects so manifold and various, that Clio, the muse of the same, began to feel the disadvantage of being a woman. "I can remember," quoth she, "what year big sleeves went out, but if anybody were to ask me who played third base with the Giants in 1897 I fear I should be at a loss." The entire mythological system of the Greeks, in fact, while exquisitely beautiful, was nevertheless inadequate to the demands of the more exigent modern order.

A REVOLVING VIEWPOINT.

BY LILLIAN COLLINS.

I have watched with much interest the evolution of the suffragist party platform. When the agitation was first begun, while it yet seemed necessary to advance some good and sufficient excuse for being, the "high moral tone" was adopted. "Purify Politics" was the slogan around which the forces rallied. Glowing pictures were painted of this political millennium which should dawn simultaneously with the enfranchisement of women.

But now since the ladies are becoming educated in political methods, are more fully informed as to the mechanism of political machinery and are rapidly becoming enamored with the beauty of practical politics this altruistic sentiment is no longer featured in headlines. I don't know why this appealing little fairy tale has been eliminated from the book of suffrage lore; but the fact remains—it's gone. No smallest trace of it appears, even in the kindergarten section.

Perhaps the suffragists have joined forces with that cult which disapproves of fairy tales as tending to overstimulate the imagination, or it may be due entirely to the love of change which is fundamental in certain temperaments. It is more probable, however, that a deeper study of the science of politics has revealed the rather awkward fact that men don't want their politics improved. If they had really wanted anything done to them they would have attended to it themselves long since.

Be that as it may, whatever the cause, the fact itself is significant. The suffragists no longer seriously expect to elevate politics. They have traveled by devious paths and circuitous route to a point where they now assert that politics will improve women. Whew! what a tremendous flop!

It is now claimed that the responsibility which an emergence into political life will entail, the need for deriving into the abstract principles underlying governmental authority, the necessity for a deeper and wider study of civic and state problems, will develop women into a pattern, womanhood of archetypal significance. Politics, and a standard womanhood! Not even the most daring French chef or faintly outrageous man-milliner could have devised a more startling combination.

The ballot as a developing agent, I think, may be accorded great courtesy until such time as women shall recognize, and to some extent at least resolve, the difficulties which antagonize them at every step in the performance of their own more specific duties. City and State may submit a little longer to the guiding hand of man's control, while the woman applies herself to the solution of her home-making and housekeeping problems before seeking the path to a larger responsibility.

Responsibility! The woman who desires that particular form of self-development can find the flower of responsibility growing upon every bush and twig in her own doorway. She need not cross the property line which divides her domain from that of her neighbor to pluck the fruit of accountability if she so will. While, on the other hand, the woman who does not seek expansion, either in self-expression or outside activities, will scarcely feel the ballot for relief from a state which appeals to her nature as distinctly proper and wholly enjoyable.

They say that women are to be improved, elevated, developed through the responsibility which the ballot imposes upon them. To the suffragist responsibility is of but one kind; its hallmark—the ballot. Thoughtful people might deem that responsibility is many-sided, and that the mere conditions of living impose upon a vast array of women a degree of responsibility sufficient to raise them to the highest power of their capacity for such development; or, as is the deplorable tendency of over-responsibility, to disintegrate and destroy all individuality of character expression.

Students of life might object that the rearing and training, with educational supervision, of a family of growing children might spell responsibility in at least one of its many phases; that the woman who competently manages the affairs of her home cannot be said to be devoid of enriching knowledge, nor lacking in that development which responsibility confers. But to the suffragist the ballot is the only recognized badge of responsible attainment.

If we follow their line of reasoning to its practical application to life we are obliged to coin a phrase with which to describe an entirely new order of things. "The responsibility of irresponsibility" is the only term which conveys an adequate conception of woman's place in the law-making body. The phrase requires the question mark, just as I have written it above, to complete the sense. The expression "responsibility of irresponsibility" is a demonstrable proposition? Does it describe a tenable position? Is it a desirable condition to create and perpetuate?

When a woman enters the polling booth to record the fact that she is a duly "enfranchised citizen" she assumes from that moment the stigma which attaches to the condition of being an irresponsible voter. She has accepted the so-called advantages of the franchise, without assuming any of its duties. She has been granted the power to make laws, and at the same time excused from any participation in their execution. Standing at length upon what the suffragist, with mistaken understanding, terms a plane of "equality" with men, she will revert—indeed of necessity she must so revert—to her world-old womanly tactics. She must exert her feminine charm to the use of persuading the men to enforce her will.

And man, with the same primitive instinct to please which led Adam to swallow the apple of Eve's choosing, will permit her to hide behind the petticoats of her womanhood, declining to pay the forfeits which the game of politics imposes upon the players. Thus will she elude the hardships, while avidly appropriating the so-called benefits of enfranchised citizenship. And woman herself—what will she have gained by this concession? A new toy that will amuse until the paint wears off; a new game of make-believe that shall attract so long as the charm of novelty exists. And for this shall the burden of political responsibility be laid upon the shoulders of an inadequate feminine electorate.

FACTS, FEATURES AND FANCIES FOR WOMEN AND MEN
BY OLIVE GRAY

DAILY BEAUTY HINT: Few women realize that the skin must be fed as well as the body; for if not, it will become dry and wrinkled, and look like old cracked leather. To omit washing the face at night is a great mistake; on retiring this is really of more importance than it is in the morning. It should be washed in warm water, and dried gently but thoroughly. Then take some good emollient, such as cold cream, and rub it in faithfully with the fingers until all of it is quite absorbed.

Louise, Duchess of Devonshire. The recent death of this double Duchess recalls her extraordinary and brilliant career.

She was of a type almost extinct nowadays, a girl, witty, audacious, intellectual, imperious, and beautiful. She lived power and gaiety and had supreme confidence in herself.

The daughter of the Count Charles Francis von Aler, of Hanover, she always retained a slight German accent that was rather quaint. When she first married Lord Devonshire in 1849, she had five children by this Duke. Two years later she married the Duke of Devonshire, who previously, as the famous Marquis of Hartington, had been a great help in politics, but was no secret to the encouragement and influence of the Duchess of Devonshire. The Duke of Devonshire was a great statesman and held high office in the councils of the empire, but if left to himself he would have lived a quiet, retired country life. The Duchess, however, ordained otherwise, for which England should be grateful.

Both as Duchess of Devonshire and as Duchess of Devonshire she gave brilliant entertainments at which beauty, wit, brains and gaiety were present in large quantities.

When the late Duke died, she was left the fine estate of Compton Place, Eastbourne, to do with as she pleased, but she had no intention of retiring and spent her time during the last three years in visiting all the fashionable rendezvous in proper sequence the same as ever. She went to all the smart race meetings, and it was at a Sandown race meeting that she was finally taken ill, dying the next day.

To the last she was supremely well dressed, and she died with the beautiful wig that became her clearest. She was passed on when she died, made new in the morning, and while she lived—her vitality was wonderful and her wit and caustic tongue stayed with her, to the end.

The Milk Bottles. When you open the milk bottle be sure that you first wash off the top and mouth. Even when the milkman is late, do not say: "Well, for this once it won't hurt," for just at that one time the milkman might have driven through a street where dust might have been raised by the night white wings and a portion settled on the top of the milk bottles.

Pour a little water on the lid of a closed bottle tomorrow morning and reflect it under the sunlight and you will find that the day lake will not need a microscope to tell its tale of dust lying there.

The Foulards. Foulards are extensively employed for little gowns with diminutive jackets. Such frocks are intended for hot weather afternoon wear when there is a little festivity at the other end of the sea or motor ride. They are trim and smart and have the advantage of durability. A becoming model seen this week was in a rich red and blue, combined with plain silk in the same shade of blue. The skirt was made with multiple rows of box plaiting at the lower edge. These were of the plain silk. The jacket was one of the above color, with a wide empire waist line and a full effect introduced by a frill of silk. The cost was of the plain silk, but its trimmings were cut from the figure—commands a little higher pay than when the position is taken permanently.

For the Athletic Girl. The girl who plays tennis or golf prefers a loosely-cut Norfolk blouse belted at the waist and falling over a plain, well-cut skirt of white duck. This year many of these skirts button, neither at one side of the front or the back, but down the side over the hip. If carefully cut such a skirt launders very satisfactorily, particularly when the buttons may be unfastened all the way down, so that the skirt may be ironed flat. With the dress is worn a flexible, shady brimmed hat of Panama or peanut straw, wound with the invariably white or black scarf.

Facing coats are built of white serge or white mohair, and are usually very plain in style, though perfectly cut and shaped to give trim, narrow lines. The inclusion of a touch of white satin in collar or cuff facing, or a little white braid; but the spectacle of white and blue "marching coats" with visors, a popularly supposed to be the appropriate garb for the woman who goes boating, is never seen here where the sun is in the footlights or in illustrations of summer novels.

HAS SOUL ANY SEX?

BY ROSE L. ELLERBE.
The subject of political equality for woman has been much discussed, pro and con, during the present campaign in California. The discussion on both sides has taken more or less of a personal character and has dealt with many details, but for the most part, it has failed to recognize that the effort to obtain equal status for women is but an incident in a great world movement, and that the matter is not a question of individual opinion or of the political expediency of the hour, but the evolution of a deep-lying principle.

Almost every nation of the globe, at the present hour, some phase of the question of social and political equality without regard to sex, is at issue. This condition is the result of the slow but sure realization by mankind of the basic principle of the Universe, that each human being, without respect to condition, race, or sex, as we look back through history, we find that the forward step in the progress of humanity has been a recognition, however blind, of this truth—a seeking to establish the equality of man with man, of soul with soul. The reformation was an effort toward spiritual equality; our Civil War was another step forward in the recognition of equality in spite of race.

Women are slowly coming to the position of dependent and chattel assigned her as the "weaker vessel," toward economic and intellectual equality. She has proved that she is capable of acting and of thinking for herself. She asks political equality, showing that she is a step toward her full status as a human being.

The fact is becoming universally recognized and hence it is inevitable in the order of things that the demand for political rights for woman should become world-wide.

The triumph of the peace policy, as proposed by our own President, would do away with one of the chief objections to the ballot for women. It is true that woman in general is not a peace-loving creature, but as Bernard Shaw wittily suggests in "Peace Clippings," "not because she couldn't fight, but because she couldn't be spared. Two-thirds of the world's population, with impunity; but if two-thirds of the world were killed off—where would we be?"

The two most potent arguments against woman suffrage are based upon the question of "expediency" and the question of "moral hazard." Expediency, the question of whether universal male suffrage is expedient or not, is a question of expediency, yet no one questions the right of the human being to suffrage. The preponderance of testimony seems to favor the woman's right to the ballot, and the principle, whether its results be good or bad, the right of the human being to the ballot is a principle that should not be altered.

The much mooted point of woman's place scarcely bears upon the subject. Soul has no sex. Intellect, judgment, and the ability to govern are common to both sexes. The physical and emotional functions of the sexes differ, but they are complementary. Since both are essential to the life of the nation, and since both are essential to the life of the individual, why are not the qualities of each sex equally demanded to govern the nation in public or "political" affairs?

It is claimed that the function of the mother is to rear children, and that the mother's place is in the home. The mother's function is to rear children, but she also has a function in the public sphere. The mother's function is to rear children, but she also has a function in the public sphere. The mother's function is to rear children, but she also has a function in the public sphere.

One of the strongest arguments against suffrage for women has been the fear of neglect of domestic duties. The declaration that women are not now fulfilling the duties peculiarly of their own, and that the neglect of the new duties of political citizenship will increase their negligence. It is true that many women are not living up to their highest potential, but that is not the question at issue. The question is whether women are capable of performing the duties of citizenship.

William F. Frew of Pittsburgh arrived Van Nuys yesterday. He is a corporation attorney and is on his way to Santa Barbara to meet his wife and other relatives who have been residing in that city a number of months. He has already spent several weeks before returning to his home.

Robert Moody of Canadian, and J. C. Zimmerman of Ft. Worth, are at the head of the Peninsular Brass Works here, and are preparing to make an extensive tour of the Pacific Coast and have already departed on this trip. They are accompanied by a number of men who are registered at the hotel.

John B. Eldridge, who has mining property near Santa Juan, Quezaltenango, Mex., arrived at the Haywards yesterday. He is here on a pleasure trip. Dr. L. E. Glavin, regent of the same hotel from the Hub of the Universe, meaning Fresno, naturally, as he explained later. An auto party which arrived at the Alexandria from San Francisco yesterday was made up of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mitau and Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Mitau and Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Mitau.

A party of Kansas City tourists who are registered at the Lankersheim is made up of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Weiswanger and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Weiswanger. Weiswanger was formerly a county official and is at present in the real estate business. R. L. Greenlaw and wife of Canaan, are at the same hotel.

Davidson of "The Boy-crofters" New York, is in the city. Miss E. A. Palmer, of Boston, arrived yesterday from the East, where she has been a student in different musical institutions. She expects to make her home in Los Angeles.

H. R. Snyder, many years in the brokerage business on Wall street, but who has recently made his home in San Diego, is passing a few days at the Van Nuys. An extended visit here last winter in the case of Mr. Snyder brought the usual remarks, permanent residence. George H. Ballou, a San Diego coffee importer, and a jobber, is a guest at the same hotel.

Mrs. H. H. Hendricks, accompanied by her two daughters and a son, Clifford Hendricks, arrived at the Alexandria yesterday from New York. Mrs. Hendricks is the widow of a wealthy metal manufacturer and is here on a pleasure tour. A party of Canadian business men who are registered at the same hotel, made up of Hugo Ross of Winnipeg, W. H. Welsh and George Barbery of Vancouver.

A. E. Mink arrived at the Hollenbeck from Yuma yesterday. He was formerly county clerk there and is well known in the political circles of the territory. Other Hassamites at the hotel are Dr. W. A. Baker and Mr. and Mrs. R. Rasmussen of Tucson.

Henry D. Boddington of El Paso, is a guest at the Angelus. Boddington is distinguished for the fact that he has wealth accumulated in mining, and yet he has foregone the pleasure of soul saving, which was a profession in which he excelled for a number of years previous to arriving in the West and shortly after arrival. He was a minister of the Methodist denomination.

Other ministers he entered the mining and land business and has been a success. Another minister at the hotel is Dr. F. W. Katterjohn, who with his wife, is registered from Paducah, Ky., and who is of the Evangelical denomination.

ENTER IN A PULLMAN.
Chinese Who Were Smuggled Into United States Must Go Home in Storage Within Ten Days.

One way of smuggling Chinese across the border was described at length to United States Commissioner Williams yesterday. Anthony Roundtree, a Pullman porter, gave testimony which the Federal authorities believe proves the existence of a smuggling band, with ramifications in Juarez, Mex., and San Francisco.

Roundtree told how he had repudiated his former position as a Pullman porter, and how he had been through a window. Although he had a hard time keeping the two conspirators out of the place, he was not deterred until the train reached El Paso.

The porter testified that F. E. Edwards, a gambler of Juarez, induced him to undertake to convey the Chinese to San Francisco. Edwards is in custody in El Paso.

Roundtree was held in $1000 bail to appear before the Federal grand jury. Geo. Wing and Lung Ting Det. the Chinese in the case, were ordered deported within ten days.

SERVED WITH NELSON.
Veteran of British Navy Dies in Los Angeles—Son Superintendent of Edison Company.

Benjamin Pearson, father of R. F. Pearson, superintendent of the Southern California Edison Company, and of Percy Pearson and J. B. Pearson, also of this city, died Thursday morning, aged 64. He made his home with his son, Percy, on Lemoine avenue. The funeral was held at 2 p. m. today at Breese Brothers' chapel.

He was a native of Shrewsbury, England, and a member of the old border counties. Many of his ancestors served in the British army and navy. He enlisted in the navy as a boy of 12, and served on board Admiral Nelson's ship Victory.

Mr. Pearson came to the United States in 1848. He took part in the expedition for the relief of Americans in Cuba in 1852. He contracted yellow fever and was invalided and sent to England, where he raised his family. Several years ago he came to live in Los Angeles.

He leaves also four daughters. They are Mrs. B. Rhodes, Hialto; Mrs. Keonta, San Pedro; Mrs. T. W. Miller, England; and Mrs. Dr. Stapley, Australia.

SHOWING GOOD WORKS.
Demonstration Given by Summer School of Physical Education Attended by Large Audience.

The demonstration given at the Young Women's Christian Association last night, by the students and teachers of the Summer School of Physical Education, was one of the greatest successes in the history of the association. All available room in the gymnasium was filled with interested spectators, who were most enthusiastic in their expressions of favor.

The school, which has now been in progress for four weeks, will close the latter part of next week. The school plan is unique in character, and the students are largely teachers from different parts of the East, who are here to perform in character, which will reflect credit on the city as well as upon itself.

A vast amount of ill health is due to impaired digestion. When the stomach fails to perform its functions properly the whole system becomes deranged. A few doses of Chamberlain's Tablets in all you need. They will strengthen your digestion, invigorate your liver, and regulate your bowels, entirely doing away with that miserable feeling due to faulty digestion. Try it. Many others have been permanently cured—why not you? For sale by all dealers.—L.A.V.
